FIRST DAY OF INTERSTATE VALIDITY

The Commonwealth of Australia was formed on 1 January 1901. The first Federal Post and Telegraph Rates Act of 1902, effective 1 November, continued the rates then in effect in the various States. On 13 October 1910 the stamps of each State became valid for use in every State.

Registered cover posted on 13 October 1910 from Prahran, Victoria to Sydney, New South Wales bearing a stamp from each of the six States, 5d in total, paying the 2d interstate rate for a letter weighing ½ oz., plus the 3d registration fee. Backstamped Melbourne 14 October and Sydney 15 October.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Stamps of Western Australia which saw Official use are found punched with a 3 mm hole until about 1860, at which time a 4 mm hole was punched. In 1885 stamps for Official use were perforated O.S.

Western Australia circular punch used on official correspondence by the Commissariat and Convict Departments, branches of the Imperial administration separate from the colonial government. Sometimes called "convict stamps."

The complete rarity "grading" which follows is based on a careful census of four leading collections, as well as on the writer's personal experience. It is, at best, a well-informed assessment – liable to adjustments as the years go by. It is probable, however, that the gradings in the top two classes at least will be found to be reasonably accurate.

The classification made, it must be admitted, is a tough one. "R," the lowest grading, does mean "rare." There is no point here in misleading the collector into imagining that it is easy to acquire most of the numerals. It isn't.

Summed up it will be found that 869 out of 2100 numbers have been included in one or other of the "R" categories.

That does not mean that the remaining 1231 numbers are common. Far from it. I would say, in fact – and looking at the overall position – that at least 33 per cent of those not given an "R" grading are quite scarce, and another 33 per cent rather scarce.

In brief, this is a forest for a real huntsman so long as he doesn't expect too much too quickly.

Everybody has a chance here of locating rarities. As these comments are made I have only seen one example of some 120 numbers. Further searching must reduce that total, as well as locating some of the "NNS" items, but it serves to indicate that everyone who participates has an excellent chance of winning prizes.

The detailed classification now follows:

The numbers to 100 (9)

RRRR: 52
RRR: –
RR: 34, 88
R: 36, 59, 77, 85, 89, 95

The 100's (23)

RRRR: (1) NNS: 121. (2) Seen: 115, 190
RRR: 107, 134, 140, 171
RR: 106, 116, 151
R: 110, 118, 122, 123, 135, 150, 154, 162, 169, 186, 188, 192, 199

The 200's (34)

RRRR: (1) NNS: 224, 248, 261. (2) Seen: 257, 281, 290, 297
