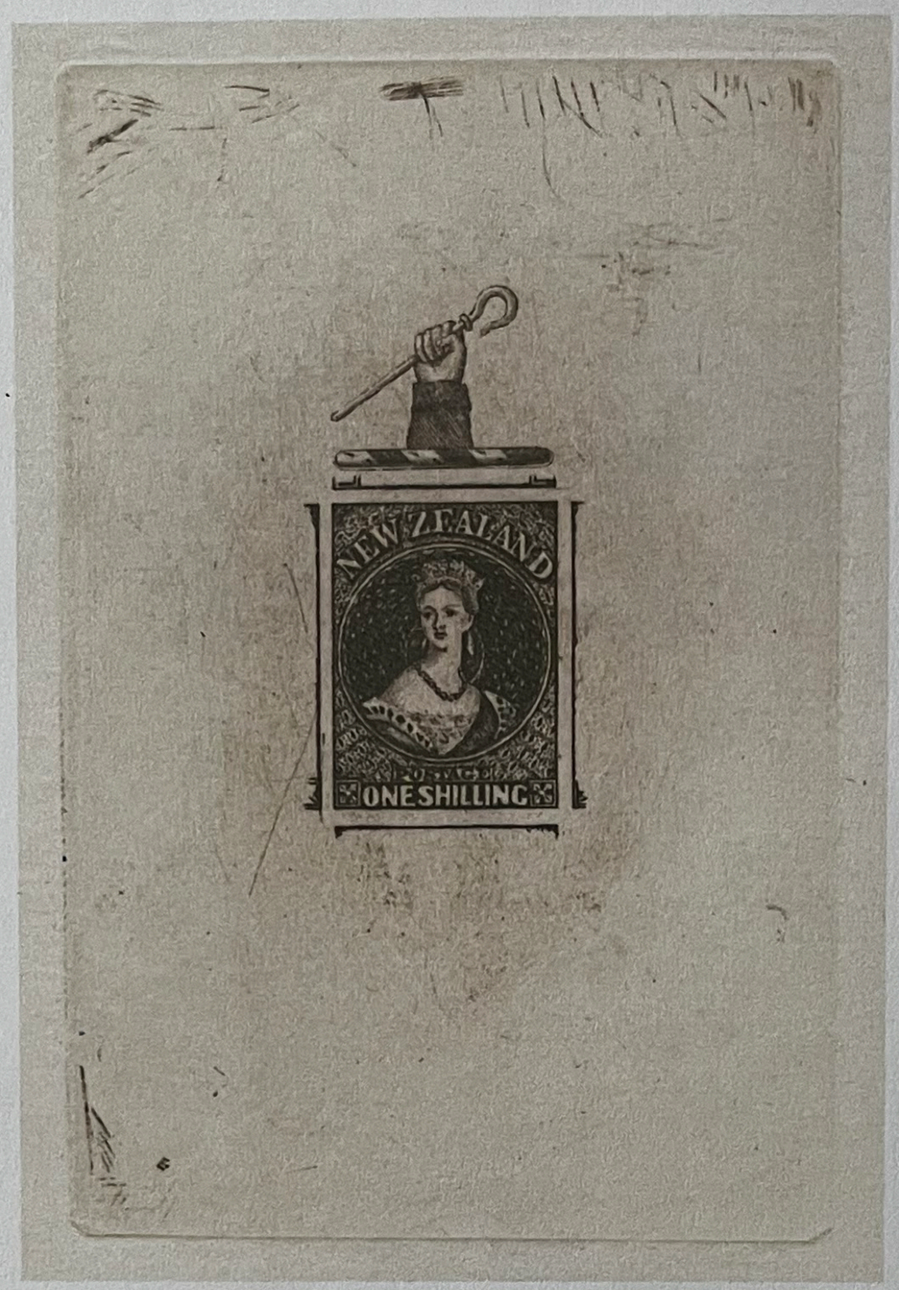
Forgeries



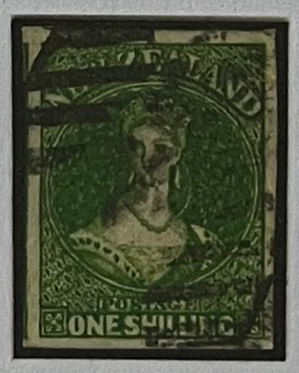


Figure 17.23. The Jeffryes forgery, sometimes incorrectly called the "Jeffery" forgery or other spellings, was created not as a "bookmark," as some have imagined, but to pass as genuine for collectors. For this reason it included the "margins" of adjacent stamps. The presence of a hand holding a "crook" is a not-so-subtle verification of the reason for its creation. The "proof" in black was taken in April 1996, soon after the discovery of the original copper plates of this and many other Jeffryes' forgeries. These plates are now in the museum of the Royal Philatelic Society London as part of the Robert H. Clarkson bequest. Examples in yellow green are printed diagonally on the paper in order that the star watermark is correctly aligned. Most have been trimmed to omit the crook. The "used" copy simulates the right side of the Wellington duplex.
