Strict Secrecy observed.
Security guaranteed by Act of Parliament.

CUSTODY AND SAFE-KEEPING OF DEPOSIT BOOKS.

POST OFFICE servants are strictly prohibited from taking charge, or otherwise retaining personal custody of Depositors' Books for the safe-keeping of which Depositors must make their own arrangements.

MARRIED WOMEN.

ALL deposits standing in the sole name of a married woman domiciled in Éire will be deemed to be the separate property of such married woman unless and until the contrary is shown.

Any woman who marries while she is a Depositor should inform the Accountant by letter and should forward her deposit book with the letter.

TRANSFERS.

DEPOSITS may be transferred from one account to another or a name may be added in the title of an account.

Application for the necessary forms, &c., should in all cases be made to the Accountant.

NOMINATIONS.

A DEPOSITOR not under the age of 16 may nominate a person or persons to receive any sum from the amount due to him at the time of his death. Application should in all cases be made to the Accountant as it is essential that the Nomination should be in due form and should be registered in the records of the Department during the Depositor's life-time.

CHEAP CERTIFICATE OF BIRTH, MARRIAGE OR DEATH.

WHEN required as evidence in connection with a Post Office Savings Bank account these certificates can be obtained at a reduced fee of one shilling each if application be made on a special form which may be obtained from the Accountant. A certificate so supplied will be retained in the Post Office Savings Bank.

IMPORTANT.

A DEPOSIT book is not a proper security for money lent, and no claim by any person holding a deposit book in respect of a loan can be recognised by the Department. Deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank are not liable to "attachment."

TÁBHACHTACH.

1 Cuirtear admháil amach ón bPríomh-Oifig ar gach taisce de £20 agus níos mó.

Mara bhfaighfear admháil de'n t-sórt san ba cheart é do chur in úil do'n Oifig sin gan moill.

2. Má cailltear an leabhar so ba chóir san a chur in úil láithreach don Phríomh-Oifig i mBaile Átha Cliath.

3. IMPORTANT.

1. An acknowledgment for each deposit of £20 and upwards is sent from the Chief Office.

Failure to receive such an acknowledgment should be notified to that Office without delay.

2. In the event of the loss of this Book immediate notice should be given to the Chief Office in Dublin.

3. This Book should be forwarded to the Accountant, Post Office Savings Bank, Dublin, on the anniversary of the day on which the account was opened unless it has already been sent to the Savings Bank for any purpose before that date in the same calendar year.

Notice to Post Office Savings Bank Depositors

Transfer of Post Office Savings Bank Deposits from the British Post Office Savings Bank to the Post Office Savings Bank of the Irish Free State.

1. Notice is hereby given that a Post Office Savings Bank will be established by the Irish Free State on the 1st January, 1923. As from that date no further deposits will be accepted at post offices situated in the Free State for the British Post Office Savings Bank.

2. Existing depositors in the British Post Office Savings Bank resident in the Irish Free State may at their option either (a) transfer the cash balances in their accounts to the Free State Post Office Savings Bank or (b) remain, to the extent of those balances, depositors in the British Post Office Savings Bank.

3. If they elect to transfer to the Free State Post Office Savings Bank they must not later than 28 February, 1923, notify their desire on form S.B.—No. 14 D, which may be obtained at any Post Office in the Free State or direct from the Controller, Post Office Savings Bank, London, W. 14. Savings Bank Books must be forwarded with the completed forms. The actual transfer of deposits will take place as on 1 April, 1923.

The liability of the British Government for deposits so transferred will cease as from the date of transfer, and all such transferred deposits will be accepted by the Free State Post Office Savings Bank subject to the regulations of that Savings Bank and on the security of the Free State.

4. Depositors who do not notify their desire for transfer will remain in the British Post Office Savings Bank.

Any such depositors who may desire at any time after the 31st December, 1922, to effect withdrawals from their accounts will make application as occasion arises direct to the Controller, Post Office Savings Bank, London, W. 14, and not to local Post Offices in the Free State.

The above Notice applies only to money deposited in the Post Office Savings Bank.

Persons holding Government Stocks or Bonds in the Books of the British Post Office Savings Bank, or Contracts for Government Life Annuities or Insurances, or Savings Certificates, should continue to make application in regard to their holdings or Contracts to the Controller, Post Office Savings Bank, London, W. 14 (or in the case of Savings Certificates to the Controller, Money Order Department, London, N. 7).

STAMPS
POST OFFICE SAVINGS/IN IRELAND
by F E Dixon

The UK Post Office opened its Savings Bank in 1861. In 1880 came the first use of stamps: a form could be obtained on which were spaces for 12 penny stamps, and when all spaces were filled the form could be used to pay one shilling into the Savings Bank. The printers of these forms (S.B.102) included Alexander Thom & Co. of Dublin.

In 1911 special 1s Savings Stamps were printed, and examples of these survive with Irish cancellations.

Although the general Post Office business was handed over to the Free State on 1st April 1922 the Free State Post Office Savings Bank did not come into being until 1st January 1923. Existing depositors resident in the Free State were given the option of continuing with the U.K. or of transferring their balance to the new concern, and they were given until 28 February to make their decision. However, from 1928 there was a reciprocal arrangement whereby the U.K. and the Irish Post Offices allowed withdrawals in the other country. This lapsed, I think, before the break of Irish currency from sterling in 1978.

The use of the forms for 1d stamps continued and there were no special stamps until about 1938, when there was a special printing of the 6d postage stamp in orange, overprinted bilingually in black. There are variations in the overprint, in the sizes of the letters, and the relative positions of the four lines. The first printing had the se monogram watermark, and a later ones the e watermark. This stamp is known postally used in 1941, apparently sold in error through confusion with the 2½d 2d yellow, overprinted in green, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the 1916 rising.

[illegible] The first specially designed Irish savings stamp was a multicolour 2s value, issued on 1 August 1968, and depicting a leaping salmon, the subject being chosen because the salmon featured on the 2s coins. Similarly a wolfhound figured on the 6d value introduced (without any publicity) in July 1969.

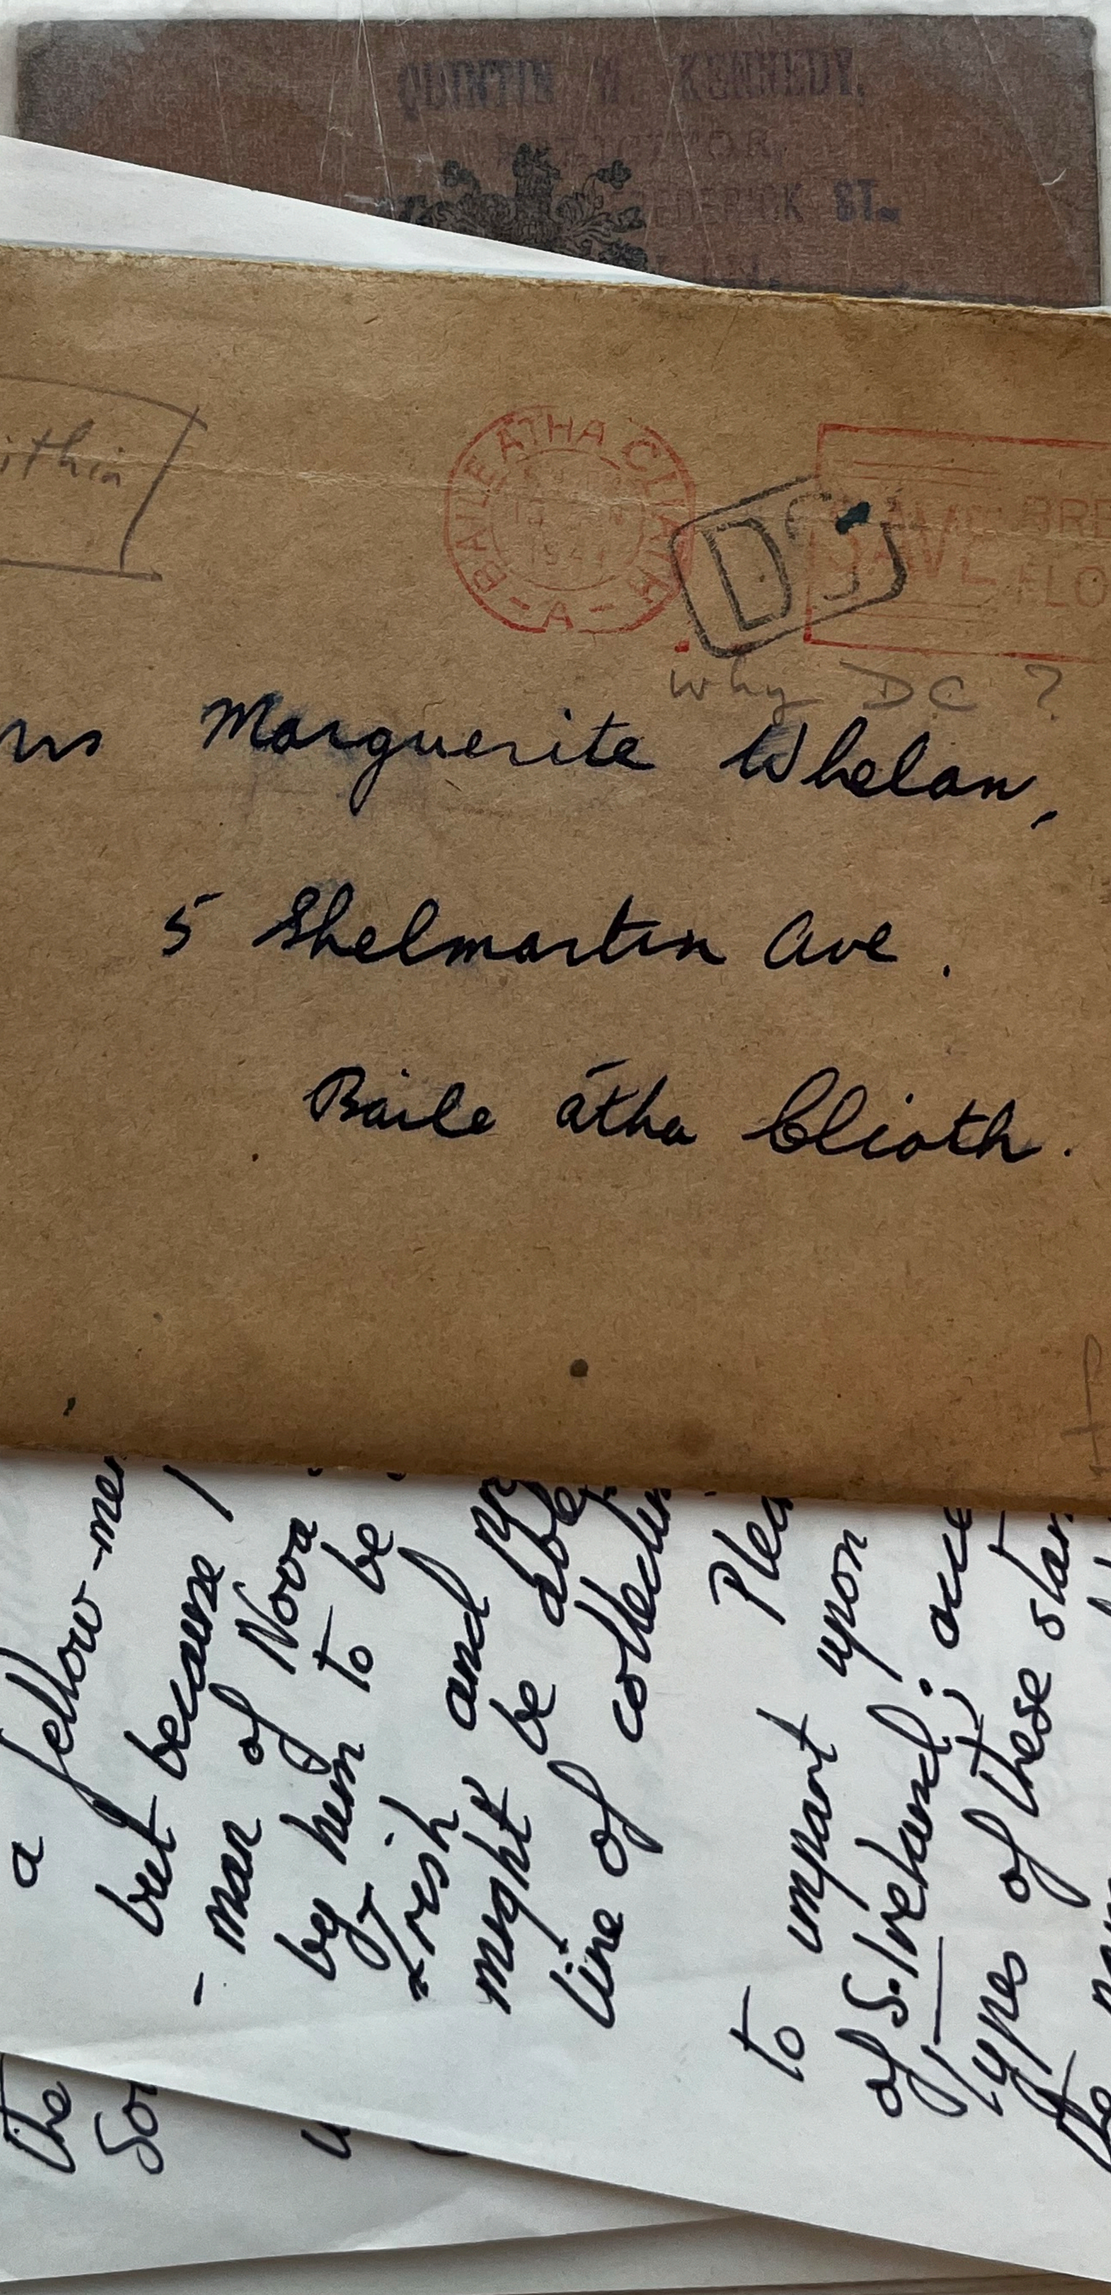

The changes resulting from decimalisation of the currency on 15 February 1971 including reissuing the salmon design in a 10p value, and adding a 5p bull to supersede the 6d. These were on e watermarked paper but the watermark is rather faint. Both values have been seen postally used. The stamps on sale at the end of 1979 are from the same cylinders, now worn and scratched, on unwatermarked paper.

In Northern Ireland the savings stamps are naturally the normal U.K. issues, but some have an overprint ULSTER/SAVINGS.

philatelic journals, I have, this year, published through the Cinderella Stamp Club, a book entitled "UK Savings Stamps Labels & Coupons and in its pages make very little mention of the savings situation either in North or South Ireland.

I have already done some 'spade-work' but cannot establish who the issuing authority for S. Ireland savings stamps ~~is~~ is.
Both the Post Office and the Savings Committee there claim to have no records of commissioning the designs or printings or of the dates of issue.

I ~~write~~ also would like to locate any specialist-collector possessing copies of the 6d blue Britannia savings stamp used in Britain between 1918 and 1941 and during part of that period overprinted "ULSTER SAVINGS" in "two-line caps".

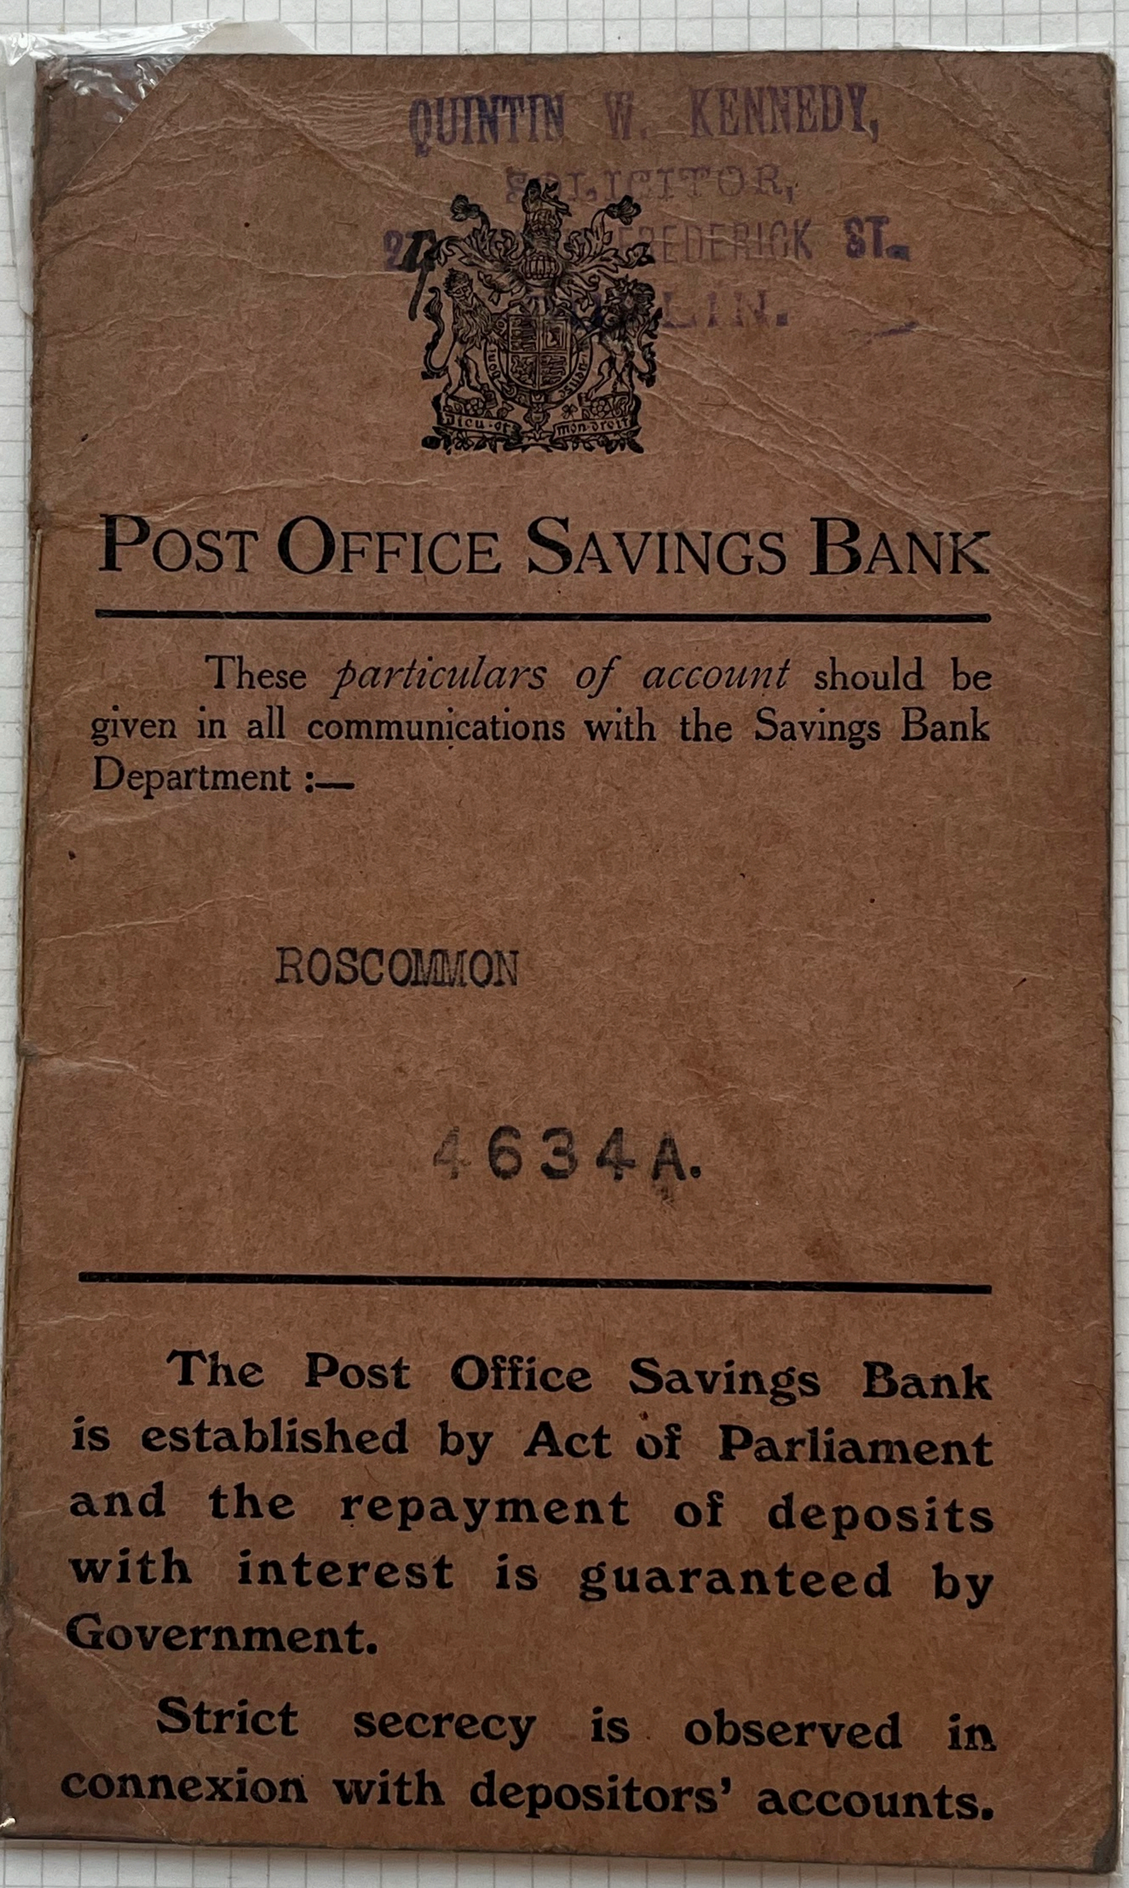

A I.R.C is enclosed herewith in the event that you might feel enabled to put me on to the right tracks for further research.

Yours sincerely

War Savings Certificates were introduced in 1915. In U.K. they were renamed "National Savings Certificates" after World War I, but when the corresponding scheme was inaugurated in Ireland the title "Savings Certificates" was considered adequate.

1st issue was at 15/6 in 1923, earning 3d interest in 1st year, then 1d a month with bonuses of 3d after 5 years and 1/- after 10.

2nd issue was at 16/- in 1931, earning 3d in 1st year, then 3d per 4 months with a bonus of 1/e at maturity.

3rd issue was at 16/- in 1933, earning 4d in 1st year and then rather complexly increasing amounts.

Dear Sir,

I do not know which of my good friends will be handling this enquiry, but I think you will find it an interesting one.

An English philatelist and myself each possess an example of the 6d Savings Stamp postally used with a ½d postage stamp at Craobh Chumhra (Co.Limerick) on 25th and 27th June 1941. When I found my copy I thought it had been sent by some crank philatelist as a joke, and have only recently realised that it may have been a genuine mistake by a P & T employee. At that time (June 1941) the most used postage stamp was the 2d provisional commemorative, overprinted in green on orange. In the poor lighting of a village post office there could easily have been confusion between this and the Savings Stamp's black on orange.

Have you any record of such a mistake being made at Craobh Chumhra or elsewhere ? It will be regarded as a major addition to Irish Postal History if the postal use of the Savings Stamp can be explained in this way.

Yours faithfully

F.E.Dixon

Note for "PagusT"

Postally used Savings Stamps

It is widely recognised (if not by the Stamps Design Committee) that counter clerks identify stamps mainly by their colour. This can lead to unfortunate mistakes, especially in the poor light of a small village sub-office. Recent examples are ls Br. O Cleirigh being sold in error for the new 6d definitive, also brown.

A very interesting example of the same sort of slip occurred in 1941. The 2d introduced in April had the map design printed in orange-yellow, overprinted in green "1941 I GCUIMNE AISEIRGE 1916". At a glance, in poor light, this is very like the now obsolescent 6d Savings Stamp, overprinted in black on orange. At least two philatelists have examples of the Savings Stamp postally used, apparently given out instead of the 2d.

Inevitably when they publicised their findings other collectors contrived to pass Savings Stamps through the post on letters. Examples are therefore found with postmarks of a wide range of dates. None has been seen earlier than the 1941 examples, and 1941 is the year to look for.
